

Contact: James M. Goss
Phone: (910) 457-3900

For release: October 3, 2017

Dosher Foundation receives $100K digital imaging grant

SOUTHPORT—The Dosher Memorial Hospital Foundation has received a $100,000 grant from The Cannon Foundation, a private foundation focused on health care, higher education, and human services across North Carolina.

The grant will help fund digital x-ray equipment at the hospital. The new radiologic equipment is designed to capture and render a digital image in about five seconds, greatly increasing efficiency over current equipment which can take several minutes. While already low, the new equipment will expose patients to even lower doses of radiation. Also, new images delivered to radiologists will be higher quality than is possible at present.

For more information on Dosher Diagnostic Imaging, call (910) 457-3881.

For more on the Dosher Foundation at (910) 457-3850 or visit www.Dosher.org/Foundation.

The Cannon Foundation, Inc., is part of the philanthropic legacy of Charles A. Cannon, industrialist and humanitarian, who was president and chairman of Cannon Mills Company for more than half a century.

# #

(Editor's note: Please see photo and caption on page two.)

Posing (left to right) with a check from The Cannon Foundation are Doshier Diagnostic Imaging employees Ashley Rauth and Jennifer Pittman, Doshier Foundation members Joyce John, Melody Ryan, Barbara Boland, Beth Nelson and Clay Fairley, Doshier Foundation President Lynda Stanley, Foundation members Rebecca Green and Mark Bachara, Doshier Hospital President & CEO Tom Siemers, and Doshier Foundation members Craig Chancellor, Robert Howard, Adam Powell, Jeri Robinson, and Russ Thompson.